

Extra Credit FT Assignment – ECON3315

Instructions

1. Register for free access to the FT at <https://join.ft.com/31f767cc-dcbe-4a7c-a4ee-98dd7811b305>

You must use a TAMUCC email address to register, as this is how the FT recognizes that you are eligible for a free month's trial subscription.

2. Over the next couple of weeks read some articles relating to international economics. [Hint: Gideon Rachman and Martin Sandbu often write columns relating to international econ]

An article such as this, on reemploying retirees in Japan would also classify as being international econ:

- Pick an article that has a subject matter that you are interested in, but one that clearly deals with an international economic issue of some kind.
- Print out a copy as a pdf file of the article using the FT website ( - below the title of the article you should see the menu bar.

Keep this article in a folder, as you will also have to look at this again later in the course.

- Now, do a short summary of what you understand the article to be saying. Use MS Word or equivalent word-processing software.
- In the second paragraph, list any economic concepts that you can identify in the document (there might not be any) for which you have full understanding.
- Next, in the third paragraph, list all the economic concepts or ideas that you do not understand in the article.
- Then either i) provide a link to the URL where the article can be found or ii) do a clip of the article (in Windows 10), and paste this into the document.
- Lastly submit your assignment to www.turnitin.com for grading before the deadline (9/20). To do this you need to register with turnitin and then enroll in the class, which requires you to know the following:
Class ID: 13390226
Enrollment password: econ3315

Patrick Crowley

August 30, 2016